Place of meeting, 30 Bonaventure st., first Wednesday in every month at half-past two o'clock.

The Committee, from the commencement of their exertions, have been quite aware that little permanent good could be effected in education without a comprehensive system of training, their attention and aim were, therefore, early directed to the supply of a pressing want in Canada East, that of a Normal School, in which certain objects of primary importance should be kept in view, such as the early and complete training of teachers; the furnishing them with sound and varied religious truth; instructing them in the best mode of maintaining discipline without harshness; a system of correctness and regularity in the keeping of registers; an uniform plan for fitting up and furnishing school houses.

The McGill Normal school, very lately established by Government, has recently amalgamated with the Society's school, the following being the principal bases of negociation:

1st. The McGill Normal will give to the teachers in training in the Colonial Church and School Society's Model School, all the advantages of its classes, aids and diplomas; receiving them as regular Pupils under the regulations.

3rd. The principal of the University of McGill College, and the Normal School Professors, will constitute the Faculty of the McGill Normal School and will prepare bye-laws for its secular and religious instruction and general management, for the approval of the Corporation; such bye-laws to be approved by the Committee of the Colonial Church and School Society, in so far as they affect their Model school or teachers in training.

4th. The School of the Colonial Church and School Society will remain under its present management, and will be constituted a branch Model school, receiving the pupil teachers of the McGill Normal School, for practice in teaching.

The Society's Model school is fitted up and supplied with School material, carefully and constantly selected from the most approved stocks. It comprises a boys', girls' and infants' school, with upwards of 400 scholars.

The City missionary aids the overworked clergy, through assistance in visiting the Hospital, shipping, the emigrants, and any destitute families who may be brought under the missionary's notice.

OTTAWA, C. W.—One of the chief Cities of Central Canada, situated on the Ottawa River, 87 miles from its confluence with the St. Lawrence, and at the mouth of the Rideau River. The City obtained its original name from its founder, Colonel By, an officer of the Royal Engineers, whom the Imperial Government commissioned in 1827 to superintend the construction of the Rideau Canal. In 1854, Bytown, by an Act of the Provincial Parliament, was created a city, and its name changed to that which it now bears. The Canal divides the City into Upper and Lower Town, and traverses the Ottawa through eight magnificent stone locks. A massive cut-stone Bridge, erected by the Royal Sappers and Miners, crosses the canal, which has already, from the extension and rapidly increasing traffic of the City, become utterly inadequate to the due accommodation of the public. The City is well laid out; its streets are wide, regular and uniform, and for the most part they intersect each other at right angles. The principal quarters are supplied with gas; and an early construction of water works is in contemplation. At the western extremity of the City are the celebrated Chaudière Falls, a scene of imposing grandeur and beauty, and unsurpassed in America, except by the Niagara Falls, which it rivals in many respects. A Suspension Bridge, erected by the Provincial Government, at a cost of $60,448, spans this foaming chasm, and unites Upper with Lower Canada. At the north-east end of the City are two other Falls, over which the waters of the Rideau River pour themselves with wild impetuosity into the bosom of the Ottawa; and although inferior to the Chaudière in point of sublimity and grandeur, they are not without many attractions to the admirer of nature's works. Altogether, the scenery around the City is of unsurpassed beauty,—wild, romantic, and picturesque,—presenting a variety rarely to be met with in any other part of the Province. The commerce of Ottawa is constituted almost wholly of lumber, both square and sawn, which passes through the City from the forests in the rear. More of this truly Canadian staple is manufactured in the district of which Ottawa is the emporium than in any other part of Canada, and the supply furnished here is the main dependence of the spring and fall fleets of shipping which arrive in this country for return cargoes to Europe; as also to a large extent (of sawn lumber) of the markets in the United States, in which the demand is constantly increasing. The Hull Iron Mines, distant from the City about seven miles, are being worked successfully, and they promise to be, before many years, a source of considerable wealth. The future of Ottawa it is not difficult to foresee: situated in the centre of a fertile and rapidly-developing country; holding, as it were, the key of the lumber trade; possessing inexhaustible water power, which men of enterprise and capital are yearly turning to account, as also every facility of communication with the principal cities and towns in Canada and with the neighbouring Republic,—it is destined at no distant period to become a place of important manufacturing operations; and in the event of the Ottawa and Georgian Bay Ship Canal being carried into effect, it will stand on the great water highway to the West. Its natural capabilities of defence are great and important. Ottawa returns one Member to the Legislative Assembly. Value of assessed property in 1856, $3,300,000. There is a daily line of steamers between Ottawa, Montreal, and Kingston; and the Ottawa and Prescott Railway trains run twice a day to Prescott, where they connect with the Grand Trunk and Ogdensburgh Railways. Ottawa is distant from Montreal 126 miles, from Quebec 296 miles, from Kingston 95 miles, from Toronto 233 miles, from New York 450 miles, and from Boston 485 miles. Population about 10,000.

QUEBEC, C. E.—The chief seaport and stronghold of military power in North America, is situated on a rock-bound promontory formed by the junction of the Rivers St. Lawrence and St. Charles, and was for a long time the capital of Canada. It is strongly fortified and garrisoned, completely commanding the navigation, and by military authorities is declared impregnable. The City is reputed to have derived its name from the words "Quel bec!" the exclamation of its hardy and adventurous discoverers when first its site broke on their astonished view. Quebec has a very grand and imposing though somewhat confused appearance, quite in keeping with the broken, bold magnificence of the surrounding country, which for natural grandeur is generally allowed to be unexcelled. Whichever side is approached by water, the City has the appearance of a huddled and confused mass, from the nature of the abrupt declivity on which a portion of it hangs and skirts; nor is the impression thus obtained at all diminished on landing, or as the stranger wends his way to the Upper Town. This portion of the City is more open, regular, and better built than the other. It is situated within the gates and walls, and approached by a steep, serpentine street and carriage-way, with long and rugged flights of winding stairs, that dip into it here and there and lessen the distance for the pedestrian. On the eastern end and point stand the Grand Battery, and portions of the fort, barracks, and town; toward the north, the Esplanade; and west, the Citadel, which crowns the heights. From Durham Terrace, which overlooks the river and the Lower Town, from the Cape or from the ramparts, a most magnificent natural panorama and amphitheatre unfolds itself, presenting to the eye of the beholder a scene incomparably grand and charming,—a view that never tires, and is always surrendered with regret. In the Lower Town, the streets (excepting, as to length, Champlain, St. Peter, and St. Paul, which run along between the bases of the cliffs and heights and the margin of the river) are narrow, short, and irregular, by reason of their frequent intersections. Eastward from the City, for some six or seven miles, to Montmorenci Falls; westwards to Cap Rouge, for some nine miles or more; by the St. Foye road, which runs along the declivity that undulates and gently slopes into the valley of the St. Charles north of the promontory, with the many handsome villas and tasteful grounds, the drives and views are very beautiful and picturesque. The wharves, considering the trade and large number of ships and craft of every kind that frequent the port, are very limited in extent, besides being disconnected and unsuitable for business; but on the side bounded by the River St. Charles, ample shipping accommodation and great improvements may easily be made. Quebec is well lighted with gas; and by means of the works lately constructed at great expense, most abundantly supplied with excellent water from Lake St. Charles, at an elevation of several hundred feet above the highest level of the Town. A continuous stream of water can now, by its own pressure, be thrown over the highest buildings in the City, rendering next to impossible the recurrence of any very serious conflagration. Quebec carries on a considerable trade with the surrounding country and with the ports and fisheries below; but her great business is ship-building and the lumber trade. She annually launches, rigged and equipped for sea, some thirty to forty vessels of varying tonnage (1000 to 2000 tons or more), and exports some 33,000,000 cubic feet of timber, besides ashes, lumber, and other produce of the country; amounting together in value to somewhere about $5,200,000. From 1400 to 1500 vessels from sea annually enter the port, not a few in ballast, it is true, but all of them with cargo outward bound. Scourged by sundry terrible conflagrations (the last especially in 1845), Quebec seems to be, Phœnix-like, rising again out of its ashes, and improving greatly on the side comprising St. Roch suburbs, where the streets are being straightened and made longer and wider, and the old frame buildings fast giving place to those of brick and stone. In wealth and population too the City is increasing,—slowly, it may be, in comparison with many places in the West, but steadily; and it must from its position continue to do so, unless its people exhibit a lack of that energy which generally characterizes the Province. Throughout the Upper Town there are quite a number of objects interesting to the stranger,—the Citadel, with its armory and magazines; the Roman Catholic Cathedral, with its many fine old paintings; the Episcopal, Presbyterian (Scotch), and other churches; the Esplanade; Governor's garden; the new Laval University, just erected at a cost of nearly $400,000, &c.: but to youth and to the historical student, the most attractive and instructive of them all will be the one same and only humble monument which meekly commemorates the two young heroes, Wolfe and Montcalm, who—in life emulous of each other's fame, in mortal strife for duty—now lie entombed in the field of their own common glory. Quebec return three members to the Legislative Assembly. Distant from Montreal 170 miles, from Kingston 342 miles, from Toronto 503 miles, from New York 556 miles, from Boston 423 miles, from Portland 317, from the Saguenay (below) 180 miles, and from Gaspe (in the Gulph) 496 miles. Population about 60,000.

In 1663 was founded the Quebec Seminary, which afterwards became a regular College; and it had, by successive additions, acquired a high degree of importance, when it was erected, by Her Majesty's Royal Charter, into a University, under the style and name of The Laval University. By this charter, which bears date December 8th, 1852, no change was effected in the constitution of the Seminary itself; but a Council, composed of the directors of the Institution, and the three senior professors of the several faculties, was empowered to possess and enjoy all the privileges granted to the Universities of the United Kingdom, and especially that of conferring degrees in the Faculties of Divinity, Law, Medicine and Arts. His Grace the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec is, by virtue of his office, Visitor of the University. The superior of the Seminary for the time being holds the office of rector.

The Collegiate Department is the Seminary as it was till 1852, and is under the control of a board composed of a Superior and at least four Directors. It is divided into two parts, called the Grand and the Minor Seminary.

ST. HYACINTHE, C. E.—A City situated on the Yamaska River, in the County of St. Hyacinthe, and the chef lieu of the new District of St. Hyacinthe, which comprises the County of that name and the Counties of Bagot and Rouville. It is one of the most flourishing places in Lower Canada, and is rapidly progressing. The local business is considerable, and the market is second only to those of Montreal as regards the variety, quality, and value of the articles brought in. The Grand Trunk Railway passes through the City, and places it at 1½ hour's time from Montreal, 10 hours from Portland, and 3½ hours from Quebec. St. Hyacinthe possesses many public establishments of great importance. The College is a fine cut-stone building over 700 feet long, and is surmounted by a cupola, from the top of which there is an extensive view: the course of studies is about the same as that in the best Jesuits' Colleges in France; and the institution possesses an excellent library, physical and astronomical apparatus, chemical laboratory, &c. The grounds around the College are very fine. The Bishop's Palace is a handsome brick structure, 150 feet long. The City Hall and Market, a superior brick building 200 feet long, is deserving of notice; and also the Court House, of stone, now about to be replaced by a more extensive edifice. Les Dames de la Congrégation annually instruct about 100 young ladies; and the Hotel Dieu, or Hospital under the management of the Sisters of Charity, provides for the sick and destitute. St. Hyacinthe contains a fine stone and brick grist mill, the property of the Hon. L. A. Dessaulles and S. Monk, Esq.; a saw mill, with turning and planing machines, the property of Messrs. Nagle; carding mills, foundries, an organ-building establishment, tanneries, and many extensive manufactories of various kinds. The communication with the south side of the river is maintained by means of three bridges, besides a railway bridge. The City contains 5 French and 2 English schools. Distant from Montreal 30 miles, from Portland 262 miles, and from Quebec 137 miles. Daily mails. Population about 5000.
